

Intention and Purpose of this Website

My intention is to put all my work on this website.

Living will interrupt what I'm doing here occasionally, but, after an interruption is over, I'll return to my website until I put everything on I've done.

My purpose is to entertain you, perhaps to provide something that is meaningful to you, perhaps to suggest there is much about living that is more important than the merely material.

I appreciate donations to help me pay the costs of the website and to help me pay my way through this world. I have put a button on my homepage for donations.
